

PARTICIPATION

due

Participation contract to be completed in class 01 Participation assessment to be completed in class 12

assessment

Your participation is assessed in class by you. The participation contract is an outline of the tasks and activities you will undertake through the semester, and you will assess yourself against these in class each week. At the end of the semester, based on the evidence of your participation contract, you will allocate yourself an overall result for your participation in the subject.

value

Participation will contribute 30% of your final grade.

description

In the first class of semester you will complete a participation ‘contract’ that will outline the key activities you believe will contribute to your learning in Integrated Media One. There will be five things in your list. Attending class is not one of them. The things you describe should be able to be measured and evidenced. They are activities that you need to do, and if you did them then you would expect your learning to be successful. As things to do they are countable, so include a measure of how much of each item you will do, each week.

This contract will be reviewed by your teacher, and will inform your participation assessment.

learning outcomes

ability to reflect critically upon my own practice ability to assess my performance begin to identify my strengths and weaknesses as a media practitioner begin to identify my strengths and weaknesses as a learner assessment matrix

Marking will use the standard RMIT grading scale of fail, pass, credit, distinction and high distinction. Within each scale a qualifier of low, middle, or high, can be applied.
